Belgium Symbol Of Allied Spirit

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

BRUSSELS, Feb 7. (AP)—This is a very personal column, but I want you to meet my old friend Ernest Marechal, one of Belgium's heroes, who magnificently symbolizes the allied spirit of freedom, justice and righteousness for which he has stood so uncomprisingly at the risk of his own life through two world wars.

I regard Marechal with deepest affection, for at the end of World war I he rescued me here in Brussels from what, to put it mildly, was a most trying predicament.

I hadn't seen him since that time but one of the first things Mrs. Mack and I did on arriving in the capital was to call on Marechal and his wife and daughter.

Back in the last conflict Marechal many times dared death to cross the German lines into France from occupied Belgium in missions for his government, in which he was a cabinet minister. A citation signed by the late King Albert himself described in detail Marechal's heroism, and he wears a high decoration for his service to king and country.

That citation is badly stained with dampness, for Marechal buried it in his garden when the Germans occupied Brussels again in the war. It would have been his death warrant if they had discovered it.

In the recent war Marechal has had a son serving as a major in the British royal air force. Another lies in a Czechoslovakian grave where the Germans buried him after they had killed him by starvation and other inhuman treatment. Still, the Marechals aren't vindictive. Tears come to their eyes, but they look on the sacrifices as part of their contribution to the welfare of the country and their fellow men.

As Mrs. Mack and I were about to leave the Marechal home yesterday I asked him if he was hopeful for the future of Belgium. His eyes shone as he nodded. He has a faith that would move mountains, has Marechal.

"Yes," he said, "Belgium will come through even better than she did after the last war, because our economy is better planned these days than it was then."

New Contact Offices Will Be Opened

Idaho veterans soon will be able to obtain aid and information in filing claims for rights and benefits to which they may be entitled at a point near their homes, Homer Hudelson, manager of the Veterans administration in Idaho announced. Six additional contact offices will be opened at various new points throughout the state as soon as contact representatives can be trained to fill them.

Plans for opening offices at Sandpoint, Kellogg, Weiser, Nampa, Burley and Blackfoot on or about May 1 have been completed, the manager said, and a three month course of intensive training for representatives to man them was opened February 1 at the administration center in Boise.

With the opening of the new offices no part of the more thickly populated areas within the state will be more than 25 or 30 miles from a contact representative's office. Offices are now functioning at Coeur d'Alene, Moscow, Lewiston, Boise, Twin Falls, Pocatello and Idaho Falls. Itinerant service to other towns is now being given by representatives in charge of these offices.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Murder Confessions Are Believed Hoax

PAYETTE, Feb. 7 (AP)—Police here are holding a man who signed two murder confessions, but a midwestern detective chief who investigated the deaths said he couldn't have committed them.

Sheriff Ray Stevens said Lester D. Johnson, a transient, signed confessions saying he killed Gus Anderson and Glen Gately in Topeka, Kans.

In Topeka, Chief of Detectives F. L. Thompson said Johnson could not be responsible for the claimed slayings and suggested that the man might be seeking to return to Kansas to avoid prosecution in Idaho.

Thompson said Anderson was accidentally drowned and there were no signs of violence. When Gately was killed Johnson was serving a term in the Kansas state penitentiary for forgery, said Thompson.

State May Pay Moving Expenses

BOISE, Feb. 7 (AP)—The Idaho board of examiners has ruled that requests for moving expenses by state employes will be considered on an individual basis.

The board turned down a proposal that the state department of public assistance be given blanket authorization to pay employes' moving expenses. Director Joel Jenifer says numerous shifts were expected to be necessary to accommodate all returning war veterans.

Governor Arnold Williams, examiners' board chairman, said, however, that he believed "each move should be submitted to the board for approval on its individual merits." Other members concurred.

Actors To Make Salmon River Trip

SALMON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Several persons prominent in the motion picture industry have accepted invitations to travel down the Salmon river, the "river of no return," next September.

SHALLOW WAVES DANGEROUS

Waves are more treacherous in shallow water than upon the open sea. In shallow water, the bottom interferes with the natural action so that even an experienced seaman cannot tell what the next wave will be like.

New Books At The Public Library

Following is a list of new books and books of current interest now available at the Wallace public library.

Rental

"Marriage of Josephine," by Marjorie Coryn. Absorbing historical novel of France, centering about Josephine de Beauharnais—her vanities, her schemings, her lovers, and her marriage to Napoleon Bonaparte.

"The Shocking Pink Hat," by Frances Crane. In San Francisco in the midst of a muffling fog, Pat and Jean Abbott see a car crash into a tree and they find themselves in the midst of murder.

"The Unsuspected," by Charlotte Armstrong. Although there is murder and mystery too, there is never any doubt as to who the guilty person is. But this knowledge serves to sharpen the interest of the reader. One of the best.

General Circulation

"The Silver Flute," by Lida Larrimore. When she lost her father, 18-year-old Barbara's private world seemed to come to an end. With the help of Bruce, an artist, and "Uncle Stephen," her godfather, a satisfactory climax is reached.

"Death Stalks the Range," by Brett Rider. A western novel and a mystery centering around murder in a stagecoach.

"The Siamese Twin Mystery," by Ellery Queen. Trapped halfway up a mountain by a forest fire Inspector Queen and his son Ellery are baffled for a time by the Siamese twin murders.

Unemployment Shows Gain In January

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7. (AP)—The labor department today listed Washington, D. C., Peoria, Ill., and Richmond, Va., as the only important cities in the country reporting more jobs than job-seekers.

Robert C. Goodwin, director of the U. S. employment service, declared a sharp rise in January unemployment reports was caused by seasonal trends, a reconversion slowdown and "the recent heavy influx of returning veterans."

A USES survey as of February 1 showed a jump from 18 to 31 in the number of labor-market areas reporting "severe" unemployment. A labor surplus was reported from 69 areas.

HE WOULD SAY— ALWAYS SHOP AT IGA

Why? IGA FOOD STORES

'Cause sound business economics would tell him that shopping the IGA way is the thriftiest way to buy groceries. One visit to an IGA Store would convince him that, because of the huge variety on hand at all times, the family would have varied and interesting menus. Foreign Copper Buying Resumed

NEW YORK—Though the strike situation in various sections of the non-ferrous metals industry failed to improve during the last week, the fact that the government is making a strong drive to end the stoppage of work at the steel plants made most observers feel hopeful that a general settlement of the labor difficulties is not far off, according to E. & M. J. Metal and Mineral Markets for the week ending January 31. It was stated officially that buying of foreign copper by Metals Reserve is being resumed. The expected limitation order on cadmium was issued by CPA, effective February 1. There were no new developments in the lead situation, with consumers disturbed because of shrinking supplies.

Copper

The Reconstruction Finance corporation announced January 29 that the Office of Metals Reserve is renewing its purchases of foreign copper. At the recommendation of the Civilian Production Administration, the buying program involves 20,000 tons a month over the first half of 1946. It was stated that this tonnage is in addition to commitments presently outstanding. The purchase price was not disclosed.

The statistics of the fabricating division of the copper industry indicate that consumption in December amounted to 95,887 tons. This brought total consumption for 1945 to 1,462,440 tons, against 1,656,052 tons in 1944. Stocks in the hands of fabricators totaled 375,618 tons at the end of December, against 368,042 tons a month previous and 334,017 tons at the end of 1944.

Lead

In the absence of official word from authorities in Washington on the recent proposal by members of the industry to raise the price of lead, the trade last week just about concluded that the suggestions will not be recognized until the supply situation becomes more acute. The government is ready to purchase foreign lead at the so-called world price of 7 cents. With the strike in Mexico still in progress, metal from that source is being offered sparingly.

Sales of lead in the domestic market last week totaled 6662 tons.

Production of lead at refineries operating in the United States came to 45,399 tons in December, making the total for last year 524,328 tons. Production totaled 538,618 tons in 1944 and 546,673 tons in 1943.

Zinc

Demand for special high grade continues active, and some producers are sold up so far as February metal is concerned. Others, however, were in a postion to take on additional business. Prime western has suffered a little recently because of the steel strike.

The British ministry of supply has purchased special high grade from Canadian producers at the equivalent of 9 cents per pound, delivered. This has improved the outlook for zinc in the Canadian market.

Work stoppage at three plants of the American Zinc, Lead & Smelting company ended January 26. Workers were granted a wage increase of 12½ cents an hour, and operations were resumed at Fairmont City and Hillsboro, Ill., and at Columbus, Ohio. Production at the company's electrolytic zinc refinery at Monsanto, Ill., was resumed earlier in the month.

Silver

Senator McCarran of Nevada informed those attending the recent meeting of the Colorado Mining association that he and other western senators would filibuster if necessary to defeat such legislation as the Green bill.

The New York Official for foreign silver was unchanged at 70¾ cents an ounce troy. London was steady at 44d. all week.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—Stocks generally continued their retreat in today's market although early reactions of 3 to 5 points for recently buoyant liquors were subsequently reduced and steels exhibited isolated strength as imminent settlement of the strike in this industry was expected.

A prop for bullish sentiment was the fact that liquidation never was really urgent. Dealings were slow after a fairly active getaway. Many morning losers were well above their lows near the close and a smattering of plus marks was in evidence. Transfers were around 1,500,000 shares.

Anderson Gives Detailed Story

Boyd Anderson, 21, Cascade, Mont., who faces a first degree murder charge as the result of the knife slaying of City Policeman J. C. Farris a week ago, today gave officers a detailed account of the happenings preceding and following the murder, committed, he confessed, as he was trying to burglarize the Combination grocery.

His confession was taken by Iris VanSlate, secretary to Prosecuting Attorney A. J. Graf, and he is expected to sign it after it is transcribed.

He was questioned by Graf, Sheriff Archie McPhail and Police Chief Charles Foust.

Anderson told substantially the same story as he did immediately following his arrest at a road block in Kellogg. He is still in Providence hospital suffering from gunshot wounds suffered at that time. Officers said he freely admitted the crime.

Joe Lavenger, 30, who escaped with Anderson from a Montana prison woods camp January 24, but who parted company with Anderson at St. Regis, was questioned here yesterday on his way back to Deer Lodge, but officers are convinced he had nothing to do with the slaying.

Couple Will Begin Delayed Honeymoon

OGDEN, Feb. 7. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Royal C. Sessions of Clearfield today began their long delayed honeymoon in a tender and tearful embrace on the platform of the union depot.

Mrs. Sessions was one of several war brides who passed through Ogden on their way to join their husbands in various sections of the west.

She burst into tears when she ran to the arms of her waiting husband. The couple held each other in a close and long embrace while flash bulbs popped to record the reunion.

The couple left immediately for Clearfield where they will take a long-delayed honeymoon. A wedding reception will be held in their honor February 20, in the gym of the junior high school.

Asked how she weathered the crossing, Mrs. Sessions replied, "it was a bit rough, but everyone has been most kind."

All the publicity she has been receiving since leaving England has left her a bit shocked, she said.

They were married in October, 1944, after seeing one another only intermittently in the two years after their first meeting, and Mrs. Sessions said: "I know I will like Utah immensely."

Would Simplify Rules of Golf

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 7. (AP)—The rules of golf should be expanded and simplified, said Fred Corcoran, boss of the PGA tour, in commenting today on the recent blast of the United States Golf association in the direction of the professionals.

Francis Ouimet, chairman of the championship committee of the USGA, scored laxity he said had crept into war-time golf, warning that from this point on the rules must be strictly adhered to in events sponsored by his organization.

"The rules as written do not cover everything that happens on a course and many of those in the book are difficult to interpret," said Corcoran, palpably nettled by the criticism of the USGA. He had these observations as he shepherded his PGA touring golfers into warmup play for the Texas open.

"There should be a better understanding," said the PGA tournament manager. "However, even as the rules are written, we play the same as the USGA open except that our players are charged distance only for out-of-bounds instead of stroke and distance, and we allow 16 clubs instead of 14.

"But we haven't teed up in over a year. We did it then because of bad weather and to help save the golf courses. As far as not charging a stroke for out-of-bounds, the better golfers don't get out of bounds. Byron Nelson hasn't been out of bounds since Hoover was president. Few of the pros ever use over eight or nine clubs. The extra clubs are carried to give the spectators an opportunity to see the varied types of clubs used. Sixteen clubs favor the duffers anyway.

"The pros play more than 40 tournaments a year in all sorts of conditions while the USGA sponsors only one tournament a year in which the pros compete.

"I think the PGA and USGA could get together and work out rules to everyone's satisfaction."

Boxing Boom May Set New Record

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. (AP)—From the way things are going, the boxing boom this year may exceed the fondest hopes of promoters.

An Associated Press survey showed today gross receipts are above the comparable period in 1945. Indicative of the trend are the sellouts reported in many of the smaller clubs.

With Promoter Mike Jacobs' announcement that a $140,000 gross is virtually assured for tomorrow night's scrap between Beau Jack and Johnny Greco, six shows in Madison Square Garden will have drawn $512,000. This compares with $365,046 for the first six Garden shows of 1945, a record year.

With the big outdoor shows, including the Joe Louis-Billy Conn heavyweight title bout in June, still to come, it seems certain that the $13,000,000 gross reported by 32 states for 1945 will be exceeded this year.

He will look over the skiing areas at Alta, Brighton and Snow Basin, said Reddish.

The national meets will be held here in connection with the sports program arranged for the Utah centennial.

Miners Will Meet Priest River Tonight

The scrappy Priest River basketball team, still in the running for the Panhandle conference title, meets Wallace here tonight in the first game of a three-day invasion of the Coeur d'Alenes.

They go to Mullan tomorrow night and to Kellogg Saturday night.

Coach Bill English's outfit, hoping to improve on its record for the first half of the schedule, needs a win tonight to rub out the 43-31 defeat the Spartans handed the Miners recently at Priest River. The locals already have defeated Sandpoint and Bonners Ferry at home, after losing to those two teams on the disastrous road trip.

Hendrix will be out of tonight's line up and Tissaw will take his place, English announced this morning. Hendrix has been suffering from an attack of flu.

Tonight's game, which will start at 8 o'clock, is expected to draw a good crowd in view of the fact that Priest River last week handed Coeur d'Alene its first defeat of the season.

In a preliminary at 7 p. m. the Kellogg Federated and Wallace Congregational church teams will decide the church league title in the over 100 pound class.

Vandal Grid Team To Play Marquette

MOSCOW, Feb. 7 (AP)—Football Coach J. A. (Babe) Brown announced today that the University of Idaho had added Marquette University of Milwaukee, Wis., to its football schedule next fall. The Vandals will travel to Milwaukee for the game October 12.

The game was the seventh to be signed for the Idaho schedule Brown said the university was seeking two more games to round out a nine-game schedule.

Included in the state are four coast conference tilts.

The schedule as it stands today is:

September 28—Stanford at Palo Alto; October 5—W. S. C. at Pullman; October 12—Marquette at Milwaukee; October 19—open; October 26—Oregon at Moscow; November 2—Montana at Missoula; November 9—Oregon State college at Corvallis; November 16—Portland at Moscow, Thanksgiving—open.

Two Cage Teams Tied For Lead

Two teams, the Stein of Wallace and Rose Lake, tied for first place in the first half of the Coeur d'Alene Valley basketball conference schedule, it was announced today.

Each team won three games and lost one. Bunker Hill and Mullan each won two and lost two, and the Smelter team of Kellogg lost all four games.

The Mullan team has quit basketball and has forfeited the remainder of its games.

Cougars Stress Offensive Play

PULLMAN, Feb. 7 (AP)—With every remaining northern division game in the "crucial" class, Coach Jack Friel of Washington State College was stressing offense in an effort to upset the University of Idaho here Saturday night.

Washington State has bowed twice to the Vandals, once after high scoring Gale Bishop had returned to the W. S. C. squad.

Sale Of Radio Station Approved

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The transfer of control of Louis Wasmer, Inc., licensee for radio station KHQ, Spokane, from Wasmer to the Spokane Chronicle company was authorized yesterday by the federal communications commission.

The F C C said the transfer involved a consideration of $1,295,000 plus an amount equal to the net profits of the licensee from January 1, 1945, to the closing.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7 (AP)—An aircraft engineer who said he was tired of being called a tramp has filed a petition in superior court to change his name to William F. Cramer.

He said he has taken a ribbing from friends throughout his 47 years, and he's had enough of it. His name is William Ferdinand tramp.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7 (AP)—The National Safety Council, inspired by the comic valentine spirit, offered odes to guilty motorists in its campaign to reduce the traffic toll.

One, to "Suicide Sam," read:

"You speed-crazy fiend, you would still end up dead

"If the tread on your tires was as thick as your head."

Dean Of Canterbury Denies Statement

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—President Truman made public today a letter from the dean of Canterbury in England, categorically denying he had ever said that the United States was 100 years behind the rest of the world in everything, but religion and 150 years behind in that.

The president read the letter from Dean Hewlett Johnson at his news conference and called it most interesting. It was under date of January 31.

The dean praised American achievement and said Europe could learn many things from this country.

Transfusions Fail To Save Baby

SPOKANE, Feb. 7 (AP)—Blood transfusions last night failed to keep life in the body of a 36-hour old baby born to Mrs. Earl Carow. The infant was afflicted with a rare blood condition in which red corpuscles were destroyed faster than they could be created.

Four other Carow children have died shortly after birth of the same ailment, but doctors had held hopes of being able to save the latest progeny.

OCCUPATION AND EDUCATION

The New York Times, in a dispatch from Germany, quotes a French officer in what seems to us a sage and logical summing up of the different attitudes of American and British occupying forces: "The Americans want to return to their world; the British have brought their world with them."

Of course, it must be admitted that the British world is comfortably close to the German one in the physical sense, and dangerously close to it in the political. Leaves for British occupation troops are frequent. And perhaps the fact that some parts of the United Kingdom are almost as banged up as Germany, and that "austerity living" is still in force at home, makes the men in the British zone more more content with their lot.

Still, it is significant that there have been no demonstration and practically no cries of "We want to go home" from the British occupation forces who had six rugged years of war, as soldiers or civilians or both.

The British people generally seem to have accepted the fact that they are going to be in Germany for a long time. And unless the Americans walk out on Germany almost before their task is begun—which seems likely if presnt agitations continue—our army might find it well to look into the possibility of bringing the G Is' world to Germany and Japan.

One possible step toward greater contentment might be to bring the world of education a little closer. Many of our occupation troops are of college age. So why would it not be possible to let them begin or continue their education in their off-duty hours?

The army is no novice schoolmaster. It had an extensive and successful educational program going during the war. The co-operation of American colleges and universities might be enlisted now in the matter of instructors and credits for study, so that real extension courses in the standard curricula could be set up.

The benefits of such a program ought to include the soldier's release from boredom and the fear that his army years have been wasted as far as education is concerned. The possibility of such benefits would be worth investigating if this country actually intends to hold up its end of the occupation of defeated countries.

Snow In Wallace Three-Year Record

There is more snow on the ground in Wallace now than at any time since February 19, 1943, William S. Featherstone, columteer weather observer, said today.

The present depth is 21.5 inches. On February 19, 1943, it was 22 inches.

At the Montana Power station above Burke the depth is 91 inches, following 3.1 inches that fell in the 24-hour period ended at 8 a. m. This brings the total snowfall for February there to 33.1 inches.

At Lookout the depth is 110 inches.

AGREEMENT Kaiser and Ford apparently recognize the existence of this threat and have sought to counteract it.

The former has signed up with the unions on the basis of President Truman's compromise offer of 18½ cents an hour, delivering a dig at his rivals with the statement that he would not permit a difference of three and a half cents (U. S. Steel has agreed to pay 15 cents) to jeopardize prosperity.

The Fords have made an agreement that has opened their plants. Henry is not a member of the automobile manufacturers' association.

SCREAM Independents in all lines requiring raw or fabricated steel have notified the White House and congress that they will have to fold up unless they can get relief within 30 days at the latest.

Their letters of protest fairly scream with charges that big business has rigged a conspiracy to wrong them. They also point out that heavier costs, resulting from the administration's proposal that higher wages be compensated for by increased prices to the basic manufacturers, will drive them to the wall.

Their bitter reminders of White House promises that small business and industry would retain and expand their wartime gains have not lightened President Truman's economic or political burden.

STRATEGY Although House Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts yearns to become speaker in the next congress and to take over the congressional limousine from Sam Rayburn, many G.O.P.-ers have told him that it would be an unlucky day for the republicans if they won control of congress for the last two years of President Truman's term.

Enemy domination of the legislative body and defeat of Mr. Truman's general program, in the opinion of opposition higherups, would provide the chief executive with an excuse in the 1948 election, should he be the democratic candidate.

The White House could then remind labor, liberals and racial groups of his efforts on their behalf, and deplore that a hostile house blocked him. Although it was unsuccessful, that was Herbert Hoover's strategy in the 1932 campaign.

It would be much smarter, according to many G.O.P.-ers, to let the democrats remain in charge of house and senate and continue to repudiate their own leader. Then the opposition would go to the polls on the issue that the administration consists of a divided, quarreling and ineffective family. — Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

LONDON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The British navy has sunk 114 captured German submarines since V-E day, A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, said today.

In a written reply to a member of parliament, Alexander said, "the reason they were sunk rather than offered to public tenders for breaking up is that we entered into an international agreement at Potsdam to sink them."

GOSH, ONLY A PENNY!

Once a penny was a fortune to a six-year-old. It could buy yards of licorice shoestrings, an all-day sucker, or a syrup-smothered scoop of shaved ice.

Nowadays, a penny won't buy much for a little boy. But it purchases a lot of labor-saving electricity.

Sonny may sniff at a penny for running an errand—yet that same penny will (at average household rates) do any of these jobs—

- Run a sewing machine all afternoon
- Keep a refrigerator cold for 4 hours
- Vacuum clean 10 large rugs
- Light a 50-watt bulb for 6 hours
- Run the washer for 6 tubs of clothes
- Give you the correct time for 7 days
- Keep a radio playing for 3 hours

Yes, a penny is still big money — electrically. Actually, the average family gets just about twice as much electricity for its money as it did 15 years ago. Keeping electric service cheap, friendly and dependable—even all through the war—is a tribute to the careful business management of your electric company, and to the hard work and experience of all the men and women in it.

War Prisoners Had Activities

ing the day—I studied in the morning and played bridge all afternoon.

YMCA Big Help

Among the other camp activities were the orchestra and band, operating with instruments that came in through the YMCA. The garden kept many busy. Seeds came in from individuals and the Red Cross.

I'd like to put in a plug for the YMCA about here. Our sports equipment, musical instruments and play material, many books and, one could almost say, the entire entertainment facilities of our camp came in through the "Y." Most of the stuff had been turned over to the "Y" by the U. S. army and was merely delivered to us by the "Y," but the same thing was true of the food which we received from the Red Cross—the funds or food were supplied by the army, and the packaging and delivery by the Red Cross. Between the two organizations, and the care the army was providing for us, we managed to make out.

Almost all of our books came in through the European Student Relief fund—many for study and many just for entertainment. I personally received about ten books from them.

Had Radios, Paper

Our information of the outside world came from the German radio and newspapers which we got most of the time. However, it seemed that about every time the Germans were taking a beating on some front, the radio would go bad and the presses in the cities wouldn't turn out papers for a couple of days, so we'd have to sit around and imagine what was happening. Of course, when new prisoners came, they could often give us some hot dope on what the real score was, and by checking with them it seemed that most of the time the high command communiques were very accurate. With the help of Larry Allen, AP correspondent, captured at Tobruk, it wasn't long before we could interpret their news into Americanese.

The chow situation was never good. We had hot water for a breakfast drink, from which we could make whatever we wished if we had coffee or milk from the Red Cross parcels. At noon we had vegetable soup (always thin). Dinner was potatoes and about three ounces of Red Cross meat when there were Red Cross parcels. For a long time the Germans let us purchase extra vegetables from the local market; then we often had a vegetable with the evening meal. Portions were never large. The potatoes were always boiled in the jackets and about one out of three was bad.

We used to have a "hot cup" about six times each day, for we found that, as we could never get enough food to last from one meal hour to the next, it felt better to have a little in your stomach all the time. For lunch, breakfast and dinner and the afternoon cups, hot water was supplied from the camp kitchen and for other times the heating was up to the individual.

Kept Winter Stoves

During the winter, heating stoves were operating and a person could get water heated there, but during the summer one had to "scrounge" for himself. Most men had small "Smoky Joe" heaters, made of old tin cans, which would burn paper or small scraps of wood. Two-thirds of a quarter of water could be boiled in about 15 minutes on these, but the smoke was acrid, and the operator usually had tears in his eyes during the whole heating process.

The first orderlies at the camp were British—that is, except for the Russians mentioned in last Sunday's story. They were there for German labor, not as orderlies—and we thought the English were brought instead of Americans as part of the German attempt to split the allies by making us dislike one another—so that they could have propaganda material. If so, it didn't work—we got along fine.

The orderlies worked in the kitchen and the dining hall, cooking and distributing the food under direction of the camp officers. Potato peeling and such food preparation was rotated among the officer prisoners. The Germans inspected the kitchen daily.

Camp barbers were orderlies and cut hair only on appointment because when the camp was full each man received a haircut only once a month. Officers and one of two orderlies worked in the tailor and pressing shop, repairing clothing and cutting it to fit. Each man could get a pair of pants pressed about every six or seven weeks. The cobbler shop was manned by American officers and the repairing was done from old shoes or supplies from the Red Cross. All this type of work by officers was voluntary as camp service.

Weekly Showers

Showers were a weekly affair with a designated time for each man. Each shower lasted for eight minutes, and 20 men were showered at once. The water was on for two minutes, then you had two minutes to lather, and then the water would be on for four more minutes. That was it. We did our own laundry for about the first 15 months, and then the Germans instituted a laundry system. Clothing would be gone for two or three weeks, but it came back clean. Usually, however, we washed our own, because we could not afford to be without the stuff that long.

When the Russians came close in January of this year, had taken Warsaw and were rushing westward, orders came to evacuate us westward. Those orders arrived too late for any arrangements to be made for moving us, and so we were ordered to walk.

The roads had been jammed for the preceding three days and nights with refugees who went past, horses moving at a trot, and the rattle of the hooves and the wheels could be heard all day and night. The temperature was somewhere around 5 or 10 above zero, I would guess, and the sky had a light gray overcast.

Westfard Ho! Oh, Oh.

The night before we moved out was a mess in the barracks. Everyone was rushing about making packs and trying to decide what was going to be needed and how long we would be walking. The average guess was that we would be freed by the Russians or be on a train within a week. I gave away a can of sardines because I thought that it wouldn't be worth taking. Everyone picked out what he wanted of his own stuff and turned the rest over to anyone that wanted it. When everyone had everything he thought he would need, we junked the rest. All of the unwanted clothing was thrown into the latrine so the Germans couldn't get it and masquerade as Americans. All food that wasn't to be taken was eaten.

All of the men who were unable to walk were left at the camp, with a large supply of Red Cross parcels. Tons of potatoes and other foods were within a short distance of the camp. I have since heard that the Russians arrived at that camp the afternoon of the day we left.

Sleds, pack boards, pack sacks and carts were assembled and struggled with the morning we left. Across the tailboard of a cart some humorist had scrawled in chalk, "Westward, Ho!" and it really did become a westward trek, for that was the first of 35 days of marching over a period of 45 days. We rested six days during the march and spent the last four waiting for a train to be made up after we had traveled 555 kilometers.

Explosions In Rear

We were not allowed to halt for lunch at noontime of the second day, but were kept marching for a two-hour stretch until we had crossed the Bromberg canal. We could hear heavy explosions behind us, but assumed the Germans were destroying things. We also heard some firing, but thought that it was merely someone testing a weapon.

About 2 the next morning, there was enough firing and explosions to indicate that something was happening down towards a small town we had passed. Several automatic weapons were barking and there were some heavier explosions—heavier than grenades. Just before daylight, one of the senior officers came to the barn I was in and announced that the guards had gone and the Russians were expected soon.

We immediately began making preparations for a big feed, buying some stuff on credit from the Poles in the town, and putting a huge pot of peas and a couple of pigs to cooking. But before it was cooked, a small SS patrol came into town, the German colonel had come back and we were instructed to march on. Many men hid in the hay and were liberated by the Russians. But we all couldn't do that. About seven had made arrangements to hide in our barn. They did and escaped.

Townspeople Welcome

About the fourth day out we went through the town of Lobsens and were given a hero's welcome by the townspeople who were expecting the Russians at any moment. I got into a house for a dinner of boiled cabbage and potatoes. The townspeople gave us big pieces of bread, cheese, and were walking around with pots of hot ersatz coffee. Some Polizei came along beating the people from us with his potato masher grenade and we were lined up and marched out. We caught up with our guard company. They looked in bad shape, blue with cold and badly bewhiskered. We asked what they'd been running from.

And then again into barns, a long march the next day to Flatow, where they thought there would be a train. No train, only cold barns and snow; and a Russian who died from exposure after escaping one day and being recaptured the next. Our sick were put on a train though and, after a day of rest the remainder of the column, now about 1000, marched on. The next day another carload of sick and crippled went out by train and again we marched on.

We spent a Sunday in a church at Zippnow, and the next day at a former Polish officer prison camp, only to be marched out of there when the Germans heard the Russians were only 16 kilometers away. We marched through a forest, past the body of a Polish officer, and on into the night, being sheltered at last in a small town. Then out on the road once again, tugging and hauling sleds through drifts, or bowed down by the weight of packs.

We were now out of Red Cross food, and the Germans were giving us coffee in the morning and soup at night. We were getting bread, now and then. We were able to do a little trading with the civilians if our guards were not too conscientious and could be bribed.

BONOMI'S MESS GROUP IN PRISON

Gas Tax Refund Law Abused

BOISE, Feb. 7 (AP)—The state board of examiners sought today to halt what Governor Arnold Williams termed widespread abuse of Idaho's gasoline tax refund law.

The governor said claims for refunds, presented to the state board of examiners, have been accompanied by purchase invoices on which the amounts of gasoline have been altered.

The board of examiners turned down all such claims and instructed that persons who submitted them be notified that legal action will result if similar claims are presented in the future.

Idaho statutes provide for refunds of the six-cent state tax on gasoline used for non-highway purposes, such as in farm tractors and stationary engines. Submission of a fraudulent claim may bring a fine of not more than $100.

George Thiessen, state director of motor fuels tax, asserted that fraudulent claims "run into thousands of dollars a year."

He said one of the most flagrant was accompanied by an invoice on which he said a purchase of gallons of gasoline had been to show a purchase of The refund thus would be the valid claim.

Thiessen explained that claims were discovered comparison of duplicate tached to the claims with al invoices sent in by gas ers.
